Alpha Enterprise Group Launches State-of-the-Art Next Generation Online Experience

Alpha Enterprise Group, ("Alpha"), a/k/a Alpha Office Supplies, Inc., founded in 1985, has made a significant transformation from their existing online presence to a more comprehensive next generation website. Designed by "EveryMerchant.com" the new website, "AlphaEnterpriseGroup.com", provides an online store interaction and a view of the entire Alpha organization while allowing users to become familiarized with the total company capabilities through a virtual tour.

Alpha will now provide users the ability to order office supply products from their smart devices such as iPhones, androids and tablets. Users will simply enter the website address "AlphaEnterpriseGroup.com" on their smart devices and select the "Order Online" tab and proceed with placing their order. This now gives users the convenience of interfacing with Alpha in an updated experience particularly considering today's technical savvy population.

Another key improvement is users will be able to take a virtual tour of the working showroom displaying 21 different manufacturers and the integrated technology products. This tour visualizes the web experience and allows convenient, easy access to our space. The new website is a state-of-the-art Google technology never used before in this manner in the office and furniture industry.

The newly launched website provides an intimate glimpse into Alpha, the company and includes details such as company background, history, and company mission/value proposition. It also demonstrates Alpha's continued strong commitment and social responsibility to the communities we serve.

Chet Riddick, Alpha President/CEO says, "We are proud to launch our new next generation website because it is further example of our drive to continually pursue total solutions for our customers. We anticipate that our Innovation is Change that Unlocks New Value for our Customers".
